Cambridge Assessment International Education accredits 1119 grades A-E as equivalent to IGCSE and GCSE grades A*-E. As can be seen from the table above, compatibility mapping would suggest 1119 grades A-C are comparable to CEFR level B2-C1.

CEFR – The Common European Framework of Reference provides a basis for the mutual recognition of language qualifications.

UK NQF – The UK National Qualifications Framework sets out the levels against which a qualification can be recognised in England, Wales and Northern Ireland.

In the case of a candidate whose mother tongue is other than English, according to UCAS (Universities & Colleges Admissions Service) in the UK, 1119 at grade C or above may be accepted as evidence of proficiency in English.

A General Certificate of Education (GCE) Ordinary Level is awarded to candidates who reach grade E or better.

The grades H and K indicate candidates who have not attained the standard expected of a grade E at GCE Ordinary Level, with H being awarded to those candidates who are in the first group below the pass, and K in the second group. Those candidates who have not reached the standard expected of K receive a Statement of Participation. The grades H and K are comparable to the level attained by IGCSE First Language English candidates who achieve the grades F and G.
